Breeden's Fieldtrips

Breeden's Orchard has been offering fieldtrips for over 47 years. When we took over 4 years ago we started with our Johnny Appleseed and the life of an apple field trip. During the 2020 pandemic when schools closed down we discovered that home school educators and parents wanted private tours and fieldtrips so we started to offer our classroom based on the concept of our fieldtrip. What we discovered is that children and their parents are interested in the same things we are... how do apples grow, how does pollination work, why do chickens lay different color eggs, what does the inside of a beehive look like, what can we do to reuse and recycle our stuff etc. Not being formal educators, we approach our classes with storytelling, history, sensory awareness (big words saying we like the children to use all their senses whenever possible), and we like to have an arts and craft and (when possible) a snack appropriate to what we are studying.
